Bringing an Entrepreneurial Spirit to Corwith A Letter to the Editor

CORWITH, Iowa (March 26, 2007) - When I was growing up in Corwith, the American dream was to own your own business someday. The dream is still alive but people do not see opportunities in a small, rural town. After the last 50 years I have watched Corwith, with a town of 40 businesses, dwindle to less than 10. I am committed to working with Corwith to reverse this trend.

Many people who grew up in Corwith have gone on to be very successful, and I, for one, want to give something back to the community. Several years ago I began purchasing property in Corwith with the mission to enhance business opportunities. I bought five buildings: one is currently being used free of charge for all uses as the Community Center; two have been renovated and are ready to house new start up companies or one that wishes to relocate; and two are ready for improvements upon identifying the business opportunity.

To turn Corwith or any rural community around, we must identify people who have the passion to start and own their own business. To ignite this vision, Corwith is holding a Business Opportunity Day in Corwith on Saturday, April 14th. I am inviting anyone with the dream of becoming a business owner to join us to discuss opportunities in Corwith. For qualified entrepreneurs, I am willing to provide angel money, free rent, coaching and marketing assistance.

Corwith is ready and I am ready. We simply are looking for the right people with an entrepreneurial passion and dream.

We hope you will come to hear my story and bring interest for business opportunities in Corwith. I Business Opportunity Day will help energize Corwith as I help bring new business opportunities.

Best Regards,

Bill J. Bonnstetter
