TTI Assessment Products Recognized by the International Association for Continuing Education & Training

SCOTTSDALE, Ariz. (March 15, 2006) – Target Training International, Ltd. is a research-based, problem solving company dedicated to improving the quality of life in the workplace through the application of assessments. The company's mission is to help organizations effectively manage the selection and development of their most valuable asset—people.

Two of TTI's content-rich educational tools and assessments were recently recognized by the International Association for Continuing Education & Training (IACET). The TTI seminars entitled Dynamic Communication and Your Attitude Is Showing have been accepted for IACET continuing education credit.

The foundation of these programs provides participants with the tools to understand behavior, communication, attitudes and values. By understanding personal work styles, the programs help individuals achieve more on the job, while enjoying a greater degree of success in both their personal and professional life.

“We are very pleased that the International Association for Continuing Education & Training has recognized our products for continuing education credit,” said TTI Founder and President Bill J. Bonnsetter. “It is a great endorsement of our products to have completed the strict, research-based evaluation of each of these tools, and earned the IACET stamp of approval.”

Dynamic Communication, Your Attitude Is Showing, and additional TTI talent assessment products are available through more than 4,000 TTI distributors worldwide. TTI distributors can provide the IACET certified programs in both internal classes for specific clients and in open sessions of mixed audiences. For more information, call TTI at (480) 443-1077 or visit the company Web site at www.ttidisc.com.
